In 1993 Jevard Hitch started Hitch's Lawn Service as a summer job while in college. With a 1968 chevy truck and a lawn mower, by 1995 Jevard had built the summer job into a company with a new truck, upgraded equipment, two employees, and 75 accounts. Jevard soon stopped cutting grass and passed the business to his father, (a retiree) and pursued a professional career with the Federal Reserve Bank. After a few years in corporate America, Jevard returned to the green industry and resumed control of Hitch's Lawn Service and began building an organization.
